

John M. Schneider, President of Pittsburgh-based JMS Capital Group, resigns from Board of Directors for California-based AEHR Test Systems

After amicable split, John Schneider will spend more time overseeing JMS Capital Group.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE PITTSBURGH, PA, OCTOBER 27, 2020

John M. Schneider resigned from the Board of Directors for AEHR Test Systems, a publically traded company based in Fremont, CA, effective September 9, 2020. Mr. Schneider had served on the board since 2014. Gayn Erickson, President and CEO of the company said, “I do want to take a moment to thank John Schneider for his many contributions as a board member since 2014. Earlier this month, we announced that John was retiring and not taking another year with the Board.” Schneider served on the board for over five years and was a part of their Audit Committee.

Mr. Schneider said, “I am proud of the accomplishments that AEHR had while supporting the organization through the ever changing technology environment. We were able to raise approximately $17 million in capital to further the transition. My time now will be devoted to overseeing my multifaceted company, JMS Capital Group, and spending more time with family.”

JMS Capital Group was founded in 2015 by John M. Schneider to provide meaningful investment opportunities to high net worth individuals, families, and businesses. The investment philosophy of JMS Capital Group has led the company to combine the efforts of three distinct teams - Wealth Services, Real Estate, and Development - to deliver a comprehensive suite of solutions designed to help clients meet their financial objectives.
